FULL BIOGRAPHY

Rooted in purpose. Still becoming.

Satavia Hazley Austin is a creator, entrepreneur, investor, author and philanthropist whose work sits at the intersection of executive leadership, faith and service.

A registered nurse by training, Satavia spent more than two decades in healthcare, moving from clinical practice into business development and executive leadership. She founded and led two healthcare companies through successful acquisitions, building teams, guiding growth and keeping patients and families at the center of care. Along the way, she helped serve thousands of patients and families at the end of life.

Today, Satavia is President of Starworks Foundation, a Houston nonprofit focused on education, empowerment, opportunity and community impact. Its newest program, Mimi's Memory in Action, was inspired by her grandmother and funds one-to-one, non-medical care for people living with Alzheimer's and other dementias. She serves on the executive board of The Doll Foundation and supports the Ivy Educational and Charitable Foundation of Houston.

Satavia is the visionary and curator of Journeys of Goodbye: Stories of Grief, Love, and End of Life Reflections, featuring the Healing Pen Collective. She speaks to CEOs, founders, business leaders, women's organizations, healthcare and nonprofit professionals, universities and community groups.

Through it all, her faith and her life as a wife and mother of two boys remain at the heart of who she is.

“Much to be thankful for. More to give.”
